Editor's Note

Dear APCE Community,

As we begin the spring semester, I am excited to have the opportunity to teach and learn alongside so many amazing graduate students. As the world continues to battle the covid-19 epidemic and the social injustices that it has brought to fore, I am given hope by the passion and dedication of adult educators in our program and beyond! Keep up your important work!

Sincerely,
Dr. Jeremy Bohonos

APCE Graduate Student Spotlight

Wendy B. Dale

I have more than 17 years combined training experience in the fields of Workforce Development, Social Services, Human Resources and Customer Experience. My most recent work experience has been training content moderators on various social media platforms and now managing a team of 11 new corporate trainers for a Fortune 500 company.

Entering into the APCE MA was one of the best decisions I have made and my experience has been so positive. This program has brought form, function, definition, and substance to my work and enabled me to transfer knowledge to new Learning and Development professionals alongside me as I learn.

Lila V. Ramos

"I've always been fascinated by languages and the history and culture they represent. I didn't realize it was possible for me to combine my knowledge of English and my interest in foreign languages until I taught my first ESL students by chance at the University Writing Center. Now, it is my goal to help adults learn English so that they can express themselves and seek opportunities across the world."

It's not to late to join the APCE Graduate Student Organization

The APCE Graduate Student Organization (APCE GSO) is open to all masters and doctoral students. The GSO Leadership Team encourages you to participate in-person or by video conference to discuss topics related to coursework, research collaboration, and professional development.
