What is self-care?

Self-care refers to activities and practices that we can engage in on a regular basis to reduce stress and maintain and enhance our short- and longer-term health and well-being. Self-care is necessary for your effectiveness and success in honoring your professional and personal commitments.

Self-Care Plan

1. How do you cope now?
2. What do you do for self-care now?
4. Emergency self-care: Be prepared
5. Make a commitment to yourself
6. Share your plan
7. Follow your plan
Who?

Well, ideally you!

But also, your staff.

1. How do you cope now

"KNOW THYSELF"
The way you live your life can have a big impact on your health, well-being, and how well or poorly you handle stress. Below are lifestyle behaviors that affect stress levels. Please check the boxes that apply to you. Doing an honest assessment of how well or poorly you take care of yourself can help you manage your stress in the future.

Is your lifestyle causing you stress?

When you are under stress, do you:

- Smoke/use tobacco
- Drink a lot of coffee or caffeinated drinks (more than 2-3 cups per day)
- Drink alcohol (more than the recommended levels of 1-2 per day)
- Overuse over-the-counter medications
- Overeat or under eat
- Spend too much money
- Abuse/overuse over-the-counter medications
- Watch too much television
- Have angry outbursts
- Take illegal drugs
- Withdraw from people
- Ignore or deny stress symptoms
- Engage in self-destructive behaviors

Coping now

The reason it’s important to determine how you cope now:

Decreasing or eliminating at least one “negative” coping strategy can be one of the goals of maintenance self-care; employing more positive strategies can be another.
2. What do you do for self care now?

Wait, didn’t we just talk about this?

Difference in Coping and Self-care

Coping skills are the daily go-to tools that help to relieve stress and improve mood. Self-care is the regularly scheduled maintenance that helps to prevent and restore oneself from stress. If practiced frequently, one can minimize mental breaks and extended periods of stress.

From PositiveTherapy.com
Coping skills are quick fixes that you use in the moment.

- It’s been a bad day so you decide to go to bed early to get a full night’s rest, but you eat some extra dessert beforehand.
  - Positive and negative coping skills

- You’ve just had to deal with a rude person. When you answer the next call, you are short and lose your temper with the next caller. You then call a friend to decompress and laugh about the rude person.
  - Positive and negative coping skills

“Self-care is regularly scheduled maintenance that helps prevent and restore oneself from stress.”

- Each week you attend a workout group with friends.

- Each morning, you schedule time for quiet/prayer/meditation

- Once a year, you and your spouse plan a time to get away.

YOUR MAINTENANCE PLAN SHOULD BE REVIEWED WHEN THINGS CHANGE.....
What self-care activity did you adjust during COVID?

Visiting family = Zoom happy hours & Pen pals with my grandma

Vacationing and trips = Taking drives, parking at the lake for lunch

Work conferences and meetings = Lots of online interaction
What did you share in the chat?

4. Emergency Self-Care

It is very hard to think of what to do for yourself when things get tough.

It is best to have a plan ready for when you need it.
Make a list of what you can do when you are upset that will be good for you.

- What will help me relax?
  - Breathing, muscle relaxation, music
- What do I like to do when I’m in a good mood?
  - Watching a movie, Reading for fun
- What can I do that will help me throughout the day?
  - Take a walk when I get stressed. Avoid caffeine.
- What else do YOU need to do that is specific to YOU?

Emergency Self-Care

- List of people to contact.
- List of positive things to say to yourself when you are giving yourself a hard time.
- List who and what to avoid when you are having a hard time.
5. Make a commitment to yourself

If you find making a commitment to be a challenge, then take some time to explore your reservations.

Do you have a tendency to put the needs of others first?

The truth is that your self-care is not only essential to your well-being, but it is also a necessary element for you to be effective and successful in honoring your professional and personal commitments.
6. Share Your Plan

Take your commitment further...

By involving friends, family, peers, and/or colleagues

7. Follow your plan

The hardest part!

The final step is to implement your plan and keep track of how you are doing.

Don't forget that you can revise your plan as needed.

Keeping track of your progress will help you recognize your successes and identify and address any difficulties you may not have anticipated.

Remember, also, to employ your emergency plan should emotionally difficult circumstances arise.
Self-Care Policies and Procedures

1. Normalize the conversation around self-care
   - Open dialogue
   - Open self-door policy
Note for Managers

Make sure your managers, be they Judges, Constables, or staff who manage other staff, know the rules on protection against discrimination and providing appropriate workplace accommodations.

Ensure managers are aware of key resources, like employee assistance programs, and maintain confidentiality when an employee discloses information.

Mindfulness Resources

“The awareness that arises from paying attention, on purpose, in the present moment and non-judgmentally” (Kabat-Zinn, in Purser, 2015).

Mindfulness, the practice of being fully present in the moment—notice your thoughts and letting them go, without judgment—can help you make the most of your self-care practices. With this shift in mindset, the benefits of your self-care routine will be amplified, and you’ll see a boost in your mood as well.
