GRADUATE PROGRAMS

The Interdisciplinary Studies program with a concentration in Organization, Workforce, and Leadership Studies offers a Master of Science in Interdisciplinary Studies (MSIS) or Master of Arts in Interdisciplinary Studies (MAIS).

The Management of Technical Education (MEd) degree is a degree built for the specific audience of educators and trainers with Career and Technical Education and training in mind.

OWLS Graduate Programs

GRADUATE

- Master of Science or Master of Arts in Interdisciplinary Studies, MSIS/MAIS
 - The interdisciplinary studies program offers a unique opportunity to gain skills highly valued in organizations and workplaces, such as analysis, planning and training, and development.
 - Additionally, students work closely with their advisor to select courses outside the program to align with their career objectives and area of specialization
- Management of Technical Education, MEd
 - The master of education (M.Ed.) in management of technical education program prepares graduates to manage instructional personnel in an educational or training environment.
 - Graduates learn skills needed to supervise educators or trainers in junior colleges, businesses, the military, civil service or other education and training sites.

- COMPREHENSIVE EXAMS-MSIS/MAIS/MEd
 - In your last semester of your grad program, you must complete your Comprehensive Exam. This exam is made up of two parts- written and oral.
 - The exam entails providing research from your studies.
- GRAD BULLETIN
 - The Graduate College's primary form of communication, a weekly newsletter referred to as GradBulletin, is sent to all enrolled graduate students every Friday.
 - GradBulletin features important information related to their graduate degrees including funding opportunities, deadline reminders, workshop topics, and other events in the Texas State graduate community.
