Experiences in Theatre (BFA)

The bachelor of fine arts in theatre degree provides students with a broad perspective in the theatre industry by offering classroom instruction in all phases of live theatre production. That instruction is reinforced by students' participation in every area of theatrical production and performance. Five options for concentrations are available: acting, performance & production, technical production, film production and teacher certification. Optional participation in study abroad, internships and membership in student organizations are also part of the student experience.
