COMMENCEMENT AT TEXAS STATE

Welcome to Texas State University's Commencement! In order to ensure your enjoyment and safety while visiting with us, please review the following information.

Live Streaming

For your convenience, the ceremonies will be streamed live on the commencement website at www.txst.edu/commencement. Recordings will be available for viewing at a later time.

Processional and Graduate Recognition

Candidates will seat themselves on the arena floor prior to the ceremony in order by degree level. During Graduate Recognition, candidates will cross in front of the stage from right to left.

Commencement and Graduation

Commencement is a ceremony in which preliminary degree candidates are recognized for their academic achievements. The commencement program reflects the name and degree of each candidate as well as the honors designation based on data available at the time of publication. Therefore, this program should not be considered an official list of graduates.

Guidelines for Candidates and Guests

Commencement is a significant and solemn event that celebrates years of academic achievement. In order to ensure that the ceremony is meaningful for all in attendance, please avoid all unnecessary conversation and movement. Also, please refrain from using air horns or other noisemakers during the calling of student names.

Recessional

At the end of the ceremony, all candidates will recess to Sewell Park. Guests should remain seated until all candidates have recessed. Then, guests are welcome to meet their candidates in the park near entrances 2 and 3. In the case of inclement weather, candidates will not process outside, but will leave their seats after the Platform Party has recessed.

Pride and Traditions

Commencement is an important rite of passage with many time-honored traditions. From the ceremonial mace to the gown worn by graduates, every detail of a commencement ceremony is steeped in pride and tradition. To read more about commencement traditions at Texas State, please visit <https://www.txst.edu/about/history-traditions/commencement.html>.

TXST NEXT

The State of Texas continues to see strong growth across the fields of exercise, health, and sport. Texas State University is responding with a new doctoral pathway to prepare researchers, practitioners, and leaders in these in-demand fields.

At the forefront of this growth is the new Doctor of Philosophy in Kinesiology, a 54-credit-hour program in the Department of Health and Human Performance, College of Education, and Texas State's first Ph.D. to offer both hybrid and 100% online options. The program offers two concentrations, Exercise Science and Sport Management, giving students a shared foundation in kinesiology theory and research alongside advanced, discipline-specific training.

The Exercise Science concentration is research-focused and delivered in a hybrid format, pairing coursework with in-person collaboration in exercise physiology, biomechanics, and related research methods. Graduates are prepared to conduct rigorous, evidence-based research and apply it to real-world challenges in health, fitness, and human performance.

The Sport Management concentration is applied in focus and offered 100% online, preparing graduates to lead within a sport industry that continues to expand nationally and globally, applying evidence-based decision-making to the business and leadership demands of sport-related industries and higher education.

The program builds on Texas State's established bachelor's and master's programs in exercise science, sport management, and recreation, drawing on faculty expertise in exercise physiology, biomechanics, sport administration, and adapted physical activity, several of whom serve as leaders of national professional organizations. Dissertation work is conducted synchronously across both concentrations, ensuring close, consistent faculty mentoring throughout the research process.

This new doctoral program reflects Texas State's commitment to graduate education that is rigorous, relevant, and responsive to the needs of the state and the professions it serves. Graduates will emerge as scholars and leaders ready to advance research and practice in exercise science and sport management.
