Center for the Study of the Southwest
Texas State University
San Marcos

Please cite the interview the following way:

John Mckiernan-Gonzalez, "Interview with Christopher Juarez," Center for the Study of the Southwest, Texas State University, https://www.txstate.edu/cssw/projects/futbol.html

John Mc-Gonzalez:	Hello! My name is John Mckiernan-Gonzalez. I am the director of the Center for the Studies Southwest. And I'm here at Northeast Metropolitan soccer field. I'm interviewing David? Oh, Christopher. Christopher what?
Christopher Juarez:	Juarez
John Mc-Gonzalez:	Christopher, when did you first become aware of soccer?
Christopher Juarez:	When I was three. Three-years-old.
John Mc-Gonzalez:	And what were you doing when you were three? Was it World Cup? Your dad?
Christopher Juarez:	My dad.
John Mc-Gonzalez:	How so?

Christopher Juarez: He used to watch soccer. Then he started showing me how to play, little by little.

John Mc-Gonzalez: And when did you first start playing organized soccer?

Christopher Juarez: When I was seven.

John Mc-Gonzalez: Where?

Christopher Juarez: It was in a recreational center in Austin.

John Mc-Gonzalez: Okay, and when did you first start playing soccer in Austin?

Christopher Juarez: In Austin? That time. That was 2002.

John Mc-Gonzalez: Did you ever do the traveling soccer thing?

Christopher Juarez: Yes.

John Mc-Gonzalez: Did you have to pay for that?

Christopher Juarez: Yes.

John Mc-Gonzalez: What keeps you playing soccer? Oh, what position do you play?

Christopher Juarez: I play left wing.

John Mc-Gonzalez: And what position do you play on the Grassy Stains?

Christopher Juarez: Any position I want.

John Mc-Gonzalez: What keeps you playing soccer?

Christopher Juarez: It keeps me fit, and healthy.

John Mc-Gonzalez: How do you get the time to play soccer?

Christopher Juarez: After work.

John Mc-Gonzalez: Do you play almost every day?

Christopher Juarez: Almost every day.

John Mc-Gonzalez: All right, wonderful. Thank you.

John Mc-Gonzalez: All right, are we gonna come back to ...