Students from all majors find a community in the Honors College. The Honors College offers eclectic and challenging interdisciplinary courses designed by professors in fields such as physics, mathematics, the humanities, poetry, business, or the arts. Students in these small seminar-type classes discuss ideas and raise questions stimulated by readings, field trips, and presentations. Honors classes aim to promote interdisciplinary inquiry, creativity, and a lifetime love of learning. Through the Honors Independent Study, the Honors Contract course and the Honors Thesis, students can also design their own course of study.

The Honors College encourages students to apply for nationally and internationally competitive awards such as the Truman graduate scholarships, and Honors faculty assist students applying to graduate schools. The College offers study abroad experiences and encourages students to participate. Additionally, the Honors College participates in the Texas State "Common Experience" program through programming, art exhibits, and courses which connect to the theme.

The Honors College is housed in the historic Lampasas building, adjacent to Old Main. The space includes seminar rooms, a student computer lab, a conference room, offices for staff and student academic organizations and the Honors Coffee Forum - a large area for coffee, conversation, study, and events completely surrounded by the Gallery of the Common Experience art exhibits.

APPLICATION

The Honors College accepts students on a rolling admissions basis. To apply, go to www.txstate.edu/honors/applynow.html. Entering 1st year students from the top 10 percent of their graduating class, or those with a composite score of 27 on the ACT or 1180 on the SAT (Math + Verbal), are eligible to apply for admission to the college. Transfer or currently enrolled students with a GPA of at least 3.25 are also eligible to apply.

GRADUATION

Students wishing to graduate in the Honors College now have two avenues available for doing so: (1) the traditional Honors College route, where students complete at least five Honors courses (15 hours), including the Honors Thesis and (2) a minor in Honors Studies, where students complete at least seven honors courses (21 hours), including the Senior Seminar and the Honors Thesis. All University Honors students must maintain a minimum GPA of 3.25 to remain in and to graduate from the program. Students may elect to participate in the Honors College curriculum and community without completing Honors graduation requirements.

PROGRAM BENEFITS

Honors College students receive access to early registration each semester. Students may receive travel assistance from the college to present research at regional and national conferences and are eligible for scholarships and research support awarded through the Honors College.

The Honors Thesis (a requirement to graduate in the college) allows students to design a research or creative project that they complete under the supervision of a professor who is an expert in the research area. Students present their theses in an undergraduate thesis forum, and completed theses are added to the collection of Alkek Library. Students use the experience of completing an Honors Thesis in their applications to graduate school and/or applications for post graduate work.

Texas State rewards completion of the Honors College requirements with name and thesis title included in the Commencement program, a special transcript annotation, and an Honors College certificate as a supplement to the diploma. The Honors College also provides a special medallion to its graduates, especially suited for wearing at Commencement.

PROGRAM FACULTY

The Honors College builds on the strength of master teacherscholars from across the campus, including persons who have garnered Presidential Excellence awards, Piper Professor and other state/national teaching awards, Fulbright Fellowships, and awards for their writing, research, and service contributions. Current faculty are listed on the website.

Courses in Honors (HON)

New courses in the Honors College are created continually, a process that ensures innovative, thoughtful offerings not duplicated elsewhere. Faculty members and students who participate in Honors classes represent many different academic departments and colleges from across the campus. Honors courses feature an explicitly interdisciplinary component, and all courses are, by definition, writing intensive. The courses are also discussion intensive, and students are expected to communicate orally, as well as demonstrate problem-solving skills. Many of the courses are designed to replace general education core requirements or advanced offerings. The catalog contains generic course descriptions. To see particular courses that are offered within the general rubrics listed, please see course listings at the Honors College website: <http://www.txstate.edu/honors>. Recent course offerings include Graphic Novel: Form and Practice, New and Old World Philosophy, The Voices of Eros in Poetry, Elementary Number Theory, Baseball and the American Experience, Nature and the Quest for Meaning, Humanity and the Natural Environment: A Study of Interrelationships, Disturbing the Peace: Politics of Language & Power in Hip-Hop Culture, C.S. Lewis: Chronicles of a Master Communicator, Astronomy in Art, History and Literature, and From Court to Street: 18th Century France, a course taught entirely in Paris.

HONORS CONTRACT COURSE

Designated with "Honors work included" on students' transcript upon completion, any regular Texas State course above the 2000 level can become an Honors Contract course with the concurrent approval of the student, faculty instructor, and Honors College. Students completing an Honors Contract course complete at least 15% work in addition to the requirements set forth in the course and must earn a 'B' or better in the course. (WI)

DEPARTMENTAL HONORS COURSE

Offered in a growing number of departments, the Departmental Honors Course will follow the set curriculum with additional depth in subject matter and will encourage more student independent research. Possible course modifications include independent projects, group projects, papers, fewer multiple-choice exams, and class size limited to 17 students. See course listings at <http://www.txstate.edu/honors/prospective/courses.html>.

MINOR IN HONORS STUDIES

A minor in Honors Studies requires 21 semester hours, of which 12 hours are advanced including HON 4390A and HON 4390B. Of the advanced courses, a maximum of 2 may be Honors Contract courses. Honors Contract courses may not be counted for both the minor and the major. A maximum of 3 Honors courses may be counted to satisfy both General Education Core Curriculum requirements and the minor. Students are required to demonstrate cross-cultural experience by completing a study abroad or by completing an alternative cross-cultural component. Students must complete an Honors Thesis in HON 4390B including presentation of their thesis in the Honors Thesis Forum and approval by the thesis supervising professor and the Dean of the Honors College.
